There was every prospect of another stormy session when the Senate Police Investigating Committee came together again this morning, and that the sensation loving public were fully alive to the possibilities of the situation was indicated by the the surging crowd which blocked up the corridor at the entrance of the Committee room long before the hour of convening.

There was a look of dogged determination in Police Commissioner's fiberhan's eye when he came into the court-room this morning, accompanied, as usual, by his brother, "Blue-Eyed Billy," and Lawyer Grant, his counsel, who took copious notes of the proceedings, but is not allowed to say anything. As he has told Mr. Goff on several occasions, he "intends to hold up his end," no matter what comes of it. CLINTON, Ia., Nov. 1.—Something new in the line of a hold-up took place at Mr. Sheehan Excused.

Mr. Goff started in finally by saying that many matters had been pressing upon him in regard to witnesses, and surprised everybody by announcing that he had decided, after consulting with the Gommittee, to excuse Commissioner Sheehan from further examination at the present time.

"Does that mean only for to-day?" inquired the Lieutenant-Governor.

"You may rest assured that he will not be called again in the immediate future, said Chairman Lexow.

They then ordered them to stand in line, and while one of them held the gun his companion went through the outfit. They secured $400 in cash and two watches.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Nov. 1.— Further particulars of Sunday night's wreck of the Union line steamship Wairarapa, Capt. McIntosh, off Great Barrier Island, on the northeast coast of New Zealand, show that the loss of life was not so great as at first reported.

The first reports had it that 112 of the Wairarapa's passengers were drowned. It appears, however, that eighty-one passengers and forty of the crew were saved by the lines thrown ashore and by the boats of the steamer, while Capt. McIntosh, fifty-eight passengers and twenty of the steamship's crew These are the figures given out by Lloyd's agent here.

The passengers rescued have arrived here. The steamship struck at midnight during heavy weather and when a rough | Lingering sea was running. The passengers were aroused by the shock and rushed in terror upon deck.

The women passengers and children were first placed in life boats, but several of the latter were capsized while being lowered. The crew then set to work constructing rafts.

There is no doubt that many more passengers would have been drowned seamen who swam ashore with a line and then hauled ashore a stout rope which was used in the work of rescue.
